Registration for our upcoming GPP-CME Event:
Forgetfulness can be a normal part of aging. However, some memory problems are related to health issues and for some older people, memory problems can be a sign of a serious problem. Dr. Yao Fengyuan and Ms. Soh Hwei Lee, from the Department of Geriatric Psychiatry at the Institute of Mental Health will be presenting on the topic “Memory Problems in the Elderly”. Dr. Yao will be presenting on the approach to memory problems in elderly and Miss Soh will be touching on the memory rehabilitation for early-stage dementia.

Dr. Yao Fengyuan obtained his postgraduate degree, Master of Medicine (Psychiatry), in 2011. He was the first Singapore Chief Resident for Psychiatry in 2013. He completed his specialist training in July 2014. He is currently an Associate Consultant working in the Department of Geriatric Psychiatry. He runs regular outpatient clinics seeing adult and elderly patients. He also runs the Memory Clinic every Monday morning. He is also the Project Director for the Aged Psychiatric Community Assessment and Treatment Service (APCATS), a community psychogeriatric team.

Ms. Soh Hwei Lee graduated with a Bachelor in Occupational Therapy from La Trobe University. She has 17 years of working experience in disciplines of Mental health, Geriatrics, Rehabilitation medicine, Neurology and Orthopedics. Her main clinical experience is in Geriatric Psychiatry. Her work includes providing home-based occupational therapy for homebound and frail elderly in the community as well as training, consultancy and support for community eldercare agencies. Her special interest is in dementia design i.e. modifying environments and activities to assist people with dementia to participate in meaningful life activity.

We would like to invite you to attend our GP Forum on 18 April 2015, Saturday afternoon 1pm to 4.30pm at Goodwood Park Singapore, located conveniently in the Orchard Area.
